Making Federal Work Study Awards

Federal Work Study awards will be made as follows:

If a student indicates on their FAFSA that they want to do work study they will be awarded an FWS award to the extent that they are eligible. Making an award to a student is not intended to be the same thing as the student getting a FWS job.

If a student is awarded an FWS award they must then contact a FWS supervisor and apply for the job. See the document “Federal Work Study Hiring Process” for detailed information.
